 Weather, Wind, and Sea Conditions: sunny, 15 kts, gusty, 2ft seas

Events and Highlights of the Day The day began with Kristen, the mate of the day, playing everyone's favorite Irish jig. We all got up pretty quickly this morning because we were excited to practice our jibes on the way to Little Harbor. Plus, we had heard that the beach on Sandy Cay was beautiful! Jen and Heather made an awesome egg and cheese casserole for breakfast. After that we got underway and Will and Eric taught a hilarious lesson on Bernoulli's Principle. We thought the exciting part of our sail was over, but a pod of dolphins came up at the end and escorted us into the harbor! And as for the beach, it was even more BEAUTIFUL than everyone had said.

Events and Highlights of the Day We all got up early and got to work on breakfast. shortly after our divers headed out and we welcomed the crew of the other delta boat over for a pleasure sail around Cooper island. I got pretty queasy (yikes) but the rest of the crew all had a blast. We returned to Cooper and picked up a ~~beer~~ bell closer to shore. at around 2 we went ashore and chilled while the open water divers did their thing. At 4ish we returned, showered, and got to work on dinner. Our freshwater washdown was broken today so we shipped off to get a rinse. After a hearty dinner we cleaned, got inspected, and were ferried ashore for a social. We all made new pals and played some great games with the rest of Delta (I won rock paper scissors). We went back to boats and settled down to rest

Events and Highlights of the Day This morning we woke up in great harbor. It was a relaxed morning, we ate breakfast at 7:30 and had two hours to relax before we had to leave to go to Salt Island. We sailed around for about two hours and the mainsail was able to be raised without any reefing lines! We got to Salt Island and anchored, going over now to strip the anchor and set it in deeper water. Kylie and Moose switched for part of the day so we had a different point of view on the boat for a while. After lunch, the open water divers went on their second open water dive and the rest of the boat hiked Salt Island. There is a raging goat conspiracy theory. The night was relaxed, individual groups of people huddled. It was a good day!

Events and Highlights of the Day We started the day late with a 9:00 sleep-in. Addie and Gavin made banana pancakes for breakfast. They were awesome! Soon after breakfast we dropped the mooring ball and moved to the dock for a bit to get fuel, water, and prepare for our overnight passage to the Leeward Islands. Before spending about an hour on shore we got our phones to call our parents to check in. After getting all of the resources we needed from the docks, we went back to the mooring ball so we could shower. Finally, it was time to start our overnight sail! We ate dinner while motoring, and then raised our sails and made our way to St. Martin, where we would arrive the next morning!

Events and Highlights of the Day The day started at 12:00 am for us, as we were in the middle of our course to St. Martin's. After several shift changes we watched a beautiful sunrise at around 6:00 am. Several hours later, at 10:30 am we made it to the island and anchored. We then set off to shore and explored some of the island's shops and other cultural places, including a surrendered French castle. Afterwards, we walked over to a portside restaurant and ordered food. Following this delicious meal, both delta crews returned to their dingys and returned to their vessels.

Events and Highlights of the Day this morning we woke up at 5:45.
it was challenge day so the captain & mate had little to no involvement with today's event. we left St Martin this morning and had a 7 hour sail to St Kitts. during the sail, we accidentally raised the jib before the main but other than that, there were no issues sailing over. once at St Kitts, we had to do circles outside the harbor while we waited for a dock space. docking was smooth and while we were waiting the boat, Antwan, no one knows where he came from but he was some entertainment while we waited to be cleared through customs. once we were allowed on land we walked around the town for a little bit & got ice cream. having Zikai rafted up to us has been interesting and fun.
overall, it was a long day with a good destination the 545 wake up might have been brutal but in the end, St Kitts has been worth the sail.

Events and Highlights of the Day Today we woke up and went to the rainforest where we took a hike and went to a beautiful flower garden. From there, we went to the Brimstone Fortress where we had lunch overlooking a gorgeous valley. We had a great time exploring the fortress' nooks and crannies. After going to the fortress, we had a fun time riding with Percy to Shipwreck Beach. At Shipwreck Beach, we ate at the restaurant and had a great time swimming. However, we had to leave a tad early due to the Hurricane Beryl forming 1500 miles Southeast. We left for the overnight sail that night instead of going to Salva Rock to avoid the possibility of even coming near to the hurricane. The overnight sail was very fun and the winds were gusting at around 30 kts. The day was very eventful and tiring but it was so worth it and so fun!

motored to the baths, where we ran around and crawled our rudders. We then mixed hats so kids doing ASA could get certified while non-ASA kids went to Zibai for their last sail. We re-grouped then cleaned our boats after docking at Hedges.
We had a catered dinner then had drinks with all the boats.
